I have no objection to a fence of this height. However, I have some concerns regarding fire danger that I'd like to make certain you have considered. This address is just over one block from the new CalFire identified LRA moderate fire hazard severity zone, which indicates to me that it is in some fire danger (remembering that none of Coffey Park was or is in any identified fire hazard severity zone). Is any part of this fence within 5' of any structure?

Although California has not adopted their Zone Zero regulations, those regulations will happen (and will require compliance for existing structures over time), and in any event, with or without regulations, we all know that flammable fences near structures are a bad idea.

For your consideration.

Sonia
