Coddington Center

Coddington Center is supportive of the City's drought efforts and continues to be engaged in saving water at their property. In 2021, they waived all fees for use of their site for a Sonoma-Marín Saving Water Partnership Drought Drop By event where City staff gave out over 1,100 drought kits to residents.

They also took advantage of the City's Irrigation Efficiency Rebate by converting inefficient spray irrigation to high efficiency drip irrigation in their parking lots, which will result in an estimated water savings of over 13,000 gallons a year. This was a massive undertaking, as they replaced more than 4,000 spray heads!
